ROC on!

ROC on! is the "brain-child" of Laurie Dangler, M.D. - a full-time urgent care physician, wife, mother of two and avid runner, who happens to have brain cancer.

While training for the Columbus marathon, Laurie began to experience what she calls "spells," when she would feel distracted and nauseated, which she attributed to migraines. After a particularly tough "spell" her doctor ordered an MRI. On August 9, 2007, at 37-years-old, Laurie was told she had a brain tumor, for which there is no cure.

In spite of all this, she continues to train and run, and raise much-needed support and funds for cancer research.
